13:00 Lunch

14:00 Session 3: Drilling down on the substantive scope of agreements

This session will look at the ongoing development of the content of investment treaties and their relationship to trade agreements and regional economic agreements. How is the structure of investment agreements changing? In what contexts is it changing and in what directions? What are the competing demands for change? The presentations will focus on what the issues are, what they mean and what benefits and risks they could bring. Issues may include:

- Investment protection, liberalization and facilitation
- Impacts of investment treaties on development and industrial policy, including performance requirement prohibitions and state ownership prohibitions
- “Domestic regulations” chapters in investment treaties
- Investor obligations

Moderator: Mr. Moses Ikiara, Kenya

Panelists:
- Mr. Aaron Cosbey, IISD
- Mr. Chanchal Sarkar, India
- Ms. Patience Okala, Nigeria
- Mr. Vicente Yu, South Centre

15:30 Break

16:00 Break-out Session 1: What scope should there be to investment negotiations?

17:00 Session 4: Substantive scope and negotiating challenges: Experience sharing

In this session, panelists will respond based on their own experience and challenges to the group reports from Break-out Session 1.

Moderator: Ms. Amira Klaï, Tunisia

Panelists: 3 country participants respond to group reports:
- Mr. Samuel Trujillo, Colombia
- Ms. L. Erika F. Ramanarivo, Madagascar
- H.E. Davaasuren Damdinsuren, State Secretary, Ministry of Foreign Affairs, Mongolia

| 9:00  | Session 5: Drilling down on the breadth of agreements: Trade in investment agreements and investment in trade and economic partnership agreements | This session will look at the ongoing development of the negotiation of trade provisions in investment agreements and investment provisions in broader trade and economic partnership agreements. Where is the demand, and why? What are the implications? What does the empirical evidence say about on the ground impacts, if anything? The presentations will again focus on what the issues are, what they mean and what benefits and risks they could bring. Issues may include:
  - Empirical evidence of impacts of free trade agreements
  - WTO+ elements in investment negotiations
  - Other economic elements in investment negotiations
  - Impacts on WTO dispute settlement and ISDS
  Moderator: Ms. Suzy Nikièma, IISD

| 14:00 | Session 7: Drilling down on the special case of dispute settlement: Local, regional and multilateral designs       | This session will discuss the ongoing developments around the existing investor–state-based dispute settlement mechanisms. It will also explore why to focus on changing dispute settlement systems, what the relationship is between scope of treaties and dispute settlement, and what systemic issues and dynamics should be impacting dispute settlement design. The presentations will again focus on what the issues are, what they mean and what benefits and risks they could bring. Issues may include:
  - an international investment court (such as the EU proposal and the discussions at UNCITRAL)
  - state–state dispute settlement (emphasized in the Brazilian model, for example)
  - regional mechanisms and courts (including COMESA, SADC and UNASUR) |

DAY 3

FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 9, 2018

9:00 Session 9: Bringing it all together: What should the landscape of investment negotiations be?

Building on the above, this session will explore how to bring the analysis and discussion of days 1 and 2 to bear on the question of what the geographical landscape of negotiations should be. Based on the view that form should follow function, and that multilateral negotiations should only reflect a need for them to take place, not an assumption they should take place, what do we learn from this Forum? Issues may include:

- How do we define the appropriate negotiating forum: by what criteria, for what purposes?
- Can substance and dispute settlement be separated in negotiations? Can dispute settlement reform effectively proceed on its own?
- What is the role of principles and declarations in defining the scope of negotiations, especially the South–South Principles enunciated over the past two Forums, the G77 Principles, the G20 principles, etc.?
- What are the pros and cons of negotiating at different levels from the perspective of maximizing results, maximizing strengths, negotiating dynamics, etc.?
- What are the impacts of choosing different forums for negotiations (WTO, UNCITRAL,
